Description

COVENTRY is a high yielding Kent pumpkin with good vine vigour. COVENTRY has been bred to retain an attractive mottled blue-green skin colour through to maturity, compared to other varieties which tend to pale out as they age. COVENTRY has similar size and shape to current standards with a small seed cavity, deep orange flesh colour and good uniformity and shelf life. Yields have been slightly higher than Kens Special Hybrid 864 and Joker in plantings to date. COVENTRY is 7-10 days later to mature than other commercial Jap varieties.
